

Edward Jones Biometric ID Terms and Conditions

---

These terms and conditions govern your access to and use of device-based fingerprint or facial-recognition scanning technology (a "Biometric ID") for Online Access authentication in lieu of a user ID and password. Edward Jones does not control the functionality of, nor is responsible for, the security or integrity of your devices' Biometric ID credential (fingerprint or face). Edward Jones has no access to your biometric information.

Because Online Access Biometric ID authenticates through the Biometric ID(s) saved to your device, you must use that device for Biometric ID authentication. Only one Online Access Login can be associated with the Biometric ID(s) enabled on a device. There may be certain times where Biometric ID will not function as expected and we may ask you to sign in using your password. You may still use your user ID and password to sign in to Online Access from any device at any time.

It is important to remember that your device may enable a Biometric ID authenticated credential for multiple people. You should only enable Biometric ID if you're the only person who has registered biometric credentials on your device. Once Biometric ID is enabled, you must ensure that only your biometric credentials are stored and permit access to the device and you understand that any Biometric ID credential stored on your device can be used to access your personal financial information in Online Access. You understand and acknowledge that you are responsible for any activity under your Login, whether through your unique user ID and password or through your device Biometric ID(s), and any acts or omissions on your Edward Jones account(s) shall be considered valid and authorized by you.

If at any time you wish to disable Biometric ID, you may do so through your Online Access settings.